COUNCILMAN MOORE.

Popular Engineer Wins in the Seventh Ward.

Strongly Endorsed By Petition From Eighty Per Cent of the Voters.

The city Council met Wednesday night in called session and elected James J. Moore as Councilman from the Seventh Ward, to succeed the late J. G. Duncan.

The election was brought about on the third ballot, when Mr. Moore received four of the five Democratic votes. Henry T. Hurt received one vote and Councilman Glass voted uniformly for W. D. Ennis, Republican.

The new councilman was backed by a petition containing the names of 81 of the 101 Democrats in the ward and the council acted wisely in deferring to the so plainly expressed will of the voters of the ward.

Mr. Moore is engineer at the Crescent Mills and formerly occupied a similar position at the Western Asylum. He is a representative of the workingmen, a class of Democrats who have seldom received proper recognition.

At the same time he is a good business man, of excellent character, and his popularity is attested by the unanimity with which his neighbors rallied to his support and gave him an endorsement that the council could not afford to ignore.

Councilman Moore was promptly notified and appeared in open meeting and took the oath of office and entered upon his duties. The Democratic caucus to make nominations for appointive offices was held last night.

NAMED SANDUSKY.

The Identity of the Murdered Stranger Established.

The Ninth Negro Engaged in the Crime Arrested and Jailed.

The identity of the man who was murdered by a gang of negroes near Pembroke Nov. 14, has been established. His name was Sandusky and he was a saw sharpener, who was making a tour of the saw mills of Christian and Todd counties following his vocation. He spent the night of Nov. 13 in the vicinity of Bell's Chapel and showed a roll of bills there. He told those with whom he had business that he was a native of Pennsylvania and a cousin of Capt. W. H. Sandusky, the hotel man at Central City. He said his wife and little daughter died some time ago and he had been going about over the country since, hunting work in his line, which he had found profitable and he was well supplied with money. On the next day, Saturday the 14th, he went to Pembroke, showed his money while making change at a saloon, and then went out a mile from town and camped in the woods, where the negroes later crept upon him and murdered him as he slept by his camp fire.

George Holland, the negro who made the confession, implicated eight others. Seven were arrested with him and Frank Sherman, the ninth, was apprehended Tuesday. All nine of them are now in jail. According to Holland's confession Frank Meredith clubbed Sandusky in his sleep. Holland then jumped upon the writhing form and cut the victim's throat and others assisted in mutilating and robbing the corpse and secreting it in a rail pile near by, where it was found two days later.

They got a little more than $100, which was divided among them. One of the negroes says he got only $1.50 of the money.

There have been some rumors of a mob, but the officers who arrested the gang will lose the reward of $400 if there are no convictions. There seems to be no sympathy felt for the prisoners anywhere and some of the local attorneys refused to defend them. Their examining trial, which is expected to establish their guilt, has not been held.
